While it is unfortunately easy to see, as you have been reporting, that there is plenty of litter out there waiting to be picked up, did you know that in January a combination of Adopt a Mile groups, individuals, the Oconee County Road Department and the Oconee County Georgia Sheriff's Office Litter Patrol Community Service workers removed 125 bags of litter, 12 tires, 1 mattress, 1 Christmas tree and 5 dump loads of furniture and other debris from our roadways?! You can help too, either by helping cleanup a roadway or reporting what you see. Help us to eliminate litter from our roadways! #DoBeautifulThings

Discarded gloves and masks harm wildlife and the environment, and they aren't exactly pretty to look at. Dispose of them properly, invest in reusable options if you can, and spread the word. You can also sign our pledge against litter at kgbf.org. #reconsiderlitter (✉: Krzysztof Hepner)

According to the EPA, 80% of marine debris comes from land-based sources. By keeping our neighborhoods clean, we can reduce the amount of litter in our streams, rivers, lakes, marshes, and ultimately, our oceans. Residential Stormwater Solutions for Car Maintenance

Oil, antifreeze and other fluids from your vehicle that end up on your driveway or street will eventually be carried by stormwater to the nearest river, lake or stream when it rains. Small oil leaks and other vehicle fluids can add up to a big problem for our waterways. In fact, a single quart of motor oil can contaminate up to 2 million gallons of drinking water.

What can YOU do?

Never dispose of vehicle fluids into a storm drain or drainage ditch.

Recycle oil and other fluids.

Inspect and maintain your car regularly to prevent leaks of oil, coolant and other vehicle fluids.

Never work on a vehicle in the street or near a stormwater drain or drainage ditch.

Perform maintenance work on a flat concrete surface where spills can be easily cleaned up.

Place a tarp, ground cloth, sheet of plywood, cardboard or newspaper under a vehicle to capture any leaks or spills.

Always use a funnel when pouring liquids to avoid spills.

Use a drip pan under a vehicle when changing fluids, unscrewing filters and removing other parts that might leak.

Immediately clean up vehicle fluid spills with rags or other absorbent materials such as kitty litter, sawdust or oil absorbent.

Recycle used tires and batteries.

It's time for our second piece of advice for National Water Quality Month. Did you know that improperly discarded pet waste can be a major source of contamination? Rain water transports it directly to our streams, rivers, and lakes, leaving harmful bacteria behind. Never leave your house without supplies, and after you clean up after your dog, tie the bag shut and place it securely in a trash can. Let's keep our beaches clean not only to preserve their beauty, but to protect the ecosystems that rely on them. Trash can travel to the coast via wind or storm drains that flow into our waterways, so you can make a difference wherever you live. Remember to secure your loads, fasten your bins, and pick up after yourself and others.
